

Your First Love on the Sea

The Aeolian Islands await — where ancient volcanoes meet crystal waters, and every sunset feels like it was made just for you.

The Aeolian Islands

Seven enchanting islands scattered like jewels across the Tyrrhenian Sea, each with its own character and its own kind of magic. Active volcanoes, thermal waters, obsidian cliffs, and fishing villages that time seems to have forgotten. The Aeolians are not just a destination — they are a feeling. The sea here is almost always calm, the air carries the faint scent of wild capers and warm stone, and the pace of life is dictated entirely by wind and tide.

Why a Catamaran?

Bali 48 feet of pure space, stability, and soul. A catamaran is the finest way to experience these islands — steady on the water, generous in comfort, and designed for those who want everything at hand without sacrificing privacy.

5 Double Cabins

Each cabin is a private retreat with its own en-suite bathroom — no compromises, no sharing.

4 Bathrooms

Absolute privacy for every couple on board. A rare luxury at sea.

Expansive Deck

Wide, sun-drenched deck space for lounging, dining, and watching the world drift by.

Calm Sailing

The catamaran's shallow draft and twin hulls mean smoother, steadier passage between islands.

In Expert Hands

Your professional skipper is more than a navigator — they are your guide, your host, and your gateway to knowing these islands the way only a local truly can. From finding the most sheltered anchorage on a breezy afternoon to the hidden cove that never appears in any guidebook, you are always in the best of hands. All you need to do is be present, breathe in the sea air, and let the journey unfold.

A Chef on Board — On Request

Local Flavours, Elevated

The Aeolian Islands are legendary for their ingredients — capers from Salina, swordfish caught that morning, Malvasia wine poured cold in the shade. A local chef on board transforms these into unforgettable meals, served on deck as the sun dips below the horizon.

Hike Stromboli

One of the world's most active volcanoes, Stromboli offers a night hike unlike anything else on earth. As darkness falls, the volcano performs — bursts of molten rock lighting up the sky with a raw, primal energy that is impossible to forget. The ascent is demanding and deeply rewarding, guided by expert local guides. You return to the boat exhilarated, and the soft glow of the sea welcomes you back like an old friend.

Swim the Waters of Panarea

Warm, Clear, Irresistible

Panarea is the smallest and perhaps the most seductive of the Aeolian Islands — a favourite of artists, romantics, and those who simply know better. Drop anchor in a sheltered bay, slip into waters so clear you can count the stones below, and let the warmth of the Tyrrhenian wash over you. Time moves differently here.

Island to Island — Every Anchorage a Celebration

Each stop on your itinerary is a world of its own.

Vulcano

Mud baths, fumaroles, and a beach warmed by geothermal heat beneath the sand.

Salina

Lush and verdant, home to the famous capers and the sweet Malvasia wine.

Lipari

The largest island, buzzing with life, markets, and the grandeur of its ancient citadel.

Filicudi & Alicudi

Remote, wild, and almost entirely untouched — for those who want to disappear completely.

The "Great Season" — Off-Season Magic

We call it our Great Season — the shoulder months when the islands belong to the few rather than the many. The light is softer, the ports are quieter, the sea is unhurried. You dine without waiting, swim without crowds, and watch the sun set over Stromboli with nothing but the sound of water against the hull. This is the Aeolian Islands as they were always meant to be experienced — intimately, unhurriedly, and with someone you love.
